Dairy Marketing Meet, Greet & Discussion Opportunities

Tuesday, October 15, 1:00 pm, BW's, Pavilion

Tuesday, October 15, 6:00 pm, Chanderson's, Yorkshire

Wednesday, October 16, 10:30 am, Dutch Village, Clymer

Dr. Christopher A. Wolf has recently joined the faculty of the Charles H. Dyson School of Applied Economics and Management at Cornell University. He will be assuming leadership for the Dairy Markets Program as Dr. Andrew Novakovic looks toward retirement. Both have been active participants in a national effort to support dairy farmers, cooperatives, processors and more through DairyMarkets.org.

This group:

- develops tools to help farmers evaluate participation in national programs for risk management;
- hosts the Annual National Workshop for Dairy Economists and Policy Analysts and;
- conducts research to evaluate impacts of dairy policy changes on different sectors and geographic areas of the industry.

These discussions will be an informal “Dutch Treat” meal and conversation about the current dairy market situation. Bring your questions to keep discussion lively.

Please RSVP to help us plan by responding here.
