Women For the Land Workshop: Sustainable Poultry Production July 12th, 10am – 3pm at Boston Valley Farms, Hamburg, NY

If you identify as a women in agriculture, you’re welcome to join us for an upcoming discussion circle on sustainably raising chickens for meat. We’ll cover topics including production, troubleshooting pests and disease, and processing (including a live demonstration). The event is free and lunch is included. Register here.

Does A Warm Winter Mean Increased Pest Pressure?

The past winter, the weather proved to be one for the record books. New records were set for high temperatures, snowfall was low, and Lake Erie remained ice free. What might this mean for pest pressure? Check out this article to find out.

Weather Advisory – Keeping Cool When the Heat is A Lot!

It’s going to be a hot week with a heat advisory covering much of our region. Be sure to take the necessary steps and plan ahead to protect your family, employees, livestock, and crops!
